Scientific Research Centre Bistra Ptuj

Scientific Research Centre Bistra Ptuj (SRC Bistra Ptuj) presents a supporting structure of the developmental environment of the region, intended for local communities and enterprises. It forms a creative research space between economy and the academic sphere.

SRC Bistra Ptuj cares for the promotion of the developmental distinction of the local area of the Central Danube Region on an internationally comparable level. Its aims are establishing in communication and transfer of knowledge from universities and institutes into economy and small enterprises. SRC Bistra Ptuj also aims to co-create development ideas of enterprises and their transfer to research institutions.

SRC Bistra Ptuj expectations in the CityWalk project are improving transport system - change the hierarchy of priorities in transport planning (city for the people), reducing CO₂ emissions, noise level and congestion, increasing safety and making city more attractive, improving livability (improving living conditions), contributing to a healthier population, exchanging of experiences, knowledge, good practices and developing a walkability plan.
